

Passionate and enthusiastic Nansledan based Architects, specialised in private residential projects. Having worked in dozens of successful projects in the last five years, we have developed a strong working relationship with Cornwall Planning and Building Control, as well as created a trusted network of local contractors and specialised consultants to always achieve the best outcome for our projects.

Our lead architect, Antonio Sánchez, moved to Nansledan two years ago and has been part of the community ever since. Running the company from his home office, he describes the business as a small and passionate architecture practice, with one main goal - providing our customers with a personal experience:

“We pride ourselves on our personal approach to our clients, working together with them throughout the design process and using our expertise to help incorporate their ideas directly into our projects, ultimately creating something unique that our clients would love to live in.”

We have recently been in contact with the Duchy of Cornwall with regards potential home improvement or home extension works within the neighbourhood, and can't wait to have our first projects in Nansledan soon!

Covering all stages of the project, from the initial design ideas to generation of construction drawings, please feel free to get in touch to discuss how we can help you develop your ideas into something real!
